Conflict and commemoration: the archaeology of the borderlands

Saturday 28th October 2017

09.00 – 16.30 The Monty Club, 11 Broad St, Newtown SY16 2LU

The borderland between England and Wales is a unique landscape which has been shaped over thousands of years by its role as a place of conflict and commemoration.

The Clwyd-Powys Archaeological Trust is pleased to present a series of archaeological and historical talks, along with exhibitions from local groups. The talks, by experts who have spent many years researching in the region, will include subjects such as Iron Age hillforts, Offa's Dyke, medieval castles and kingdoms, as well as recent work locally in connection with the Newtown Bypass.

Speakers will include:

- Bill Britnell MBE, Clwyd-Powys Archaeological Trust
- Dr Keith Ray MBE, Nexus Heritage
- Will Davies, Cadw
- Kathy Laws, National Trust
- Dr David Stephenson, University of Bangor
- Dr Irene Garcia-Rovira, Archaeology Wales
- Edward Parry, Newtown Civic Society
- Francis Lynch-Llewelyn MBE closing address

There will also be an exhibition of local historical societies and a demonstration of weaving by Stephanie Kemp of the Newtown Textile Museum.

There are a range of ticket options available, depending on whether you want to have lunch or not, with discounts if you are a member of particular organisations. Tea and coffee will be provided to everyone. For further information and to book tickets, please contact:
